Banks To Show C. Mihalyi Coins

In connection with the 1969 "Coin Week," Charles Z. Mihalyi, real estate broker and numismatist, of Glenfield, will exhibit part of his Russian currency collection in three cases.

The collection will be on display in the National Bank of Northern New York April 21 to April 25, and in the Lewis County Trust Company from April 28 to May 2. The public is invited to see the display that took Mr. Mihalyi more than 40 years to assemble. The collection covers from the Czarist period to the present U.S.S.R.

While the Czarist currency was beautiful and artistic it was very clumsy, because the bills were large. Some were 5 X 10 inches and were very awkward to handle or carry. Ten and 500 rouble currency of this type will be shown.

At the end of World War I when the revolution broke out and civil war started, the Romanoff family was executed. This empire of many nationalities was in disorder. Several sections set up their own republics and because of a shortage of money, issued their own local currency.

The Central Soviet Government issued propaganda currency in 1919. "Workers of the World Unite," is printed in eight languages. On display will be 250 and a 1,000 rouble specimen of these, and many inflated Central Government notes.

The "Red" Government of the far stretch empire issued their own currency. The following issues are on exhibit:

City of Omsk, Siberia, Far East Republic, Wladivostock, Turkestan Soviet Republic, Transcaspian Commissariat, Provisional Government of Georgia, Provisional Government of the City of Odessa, Soviet Republic of Riga, Latvia, Soviet Armenia, (these are real artistic), printed by Wateslow and Son, London, England.

White Army of South Russia, Gen. Denikin's currency of 1919, a 100 and a 5,000 rouble.

The last section is the present Soviet Union's currency, 1-3 and 5 roubles. (Note, present exchange one rouble equals $1.10 in U.S. money.)

The collection is educational, shows the turbulent times that followed the first world war. The Mihalyi collection is not kept at his home.

ville and this year, ultimately fifty referrals were made by this Agency to the Nursery and upon a thorough investigation by this Department, it was determined that only thirteen persons, as of April 7, actually showed up and went to work. Of course, of the number referred, some did find other employment and were therefore absorbed in the labor market. It is those persons who made no attempt to report the job interview; or if they report when asked to work, fail to show up. The taxpayer is County have borne of the biggest its history. More than 100 paperbacks have been purchased by the local library for the recreational reading of school students, and more will be bought in the future, according to Mrs. Ramage.

Fifty classical records were also purchased, which appeal to students and young adults, and may be borrowed from the local library.

Three hundred and eighty paperback books will be given to 58 chartered libraries in the North Country System during 1969 as an annual grant from the System.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Parking in Mud Bath and Plowed Field

Parking Lot Thrill

Are you constantly seeking new thrills? If so, you have not lived until you have driven into and parked at the downtown Watertown Public Square parking lot. You can obtain all the pleasure of driving through a freshly plowed field, while at the same time ruining the transmission of your car.

The best part of this experience is when you exit from your vehicle. Available to one and all is a delightful mud bath. If you are fortunate to have small children or toddlers with you, the benefits derived are of course doubled or perhaps tripled.

This delightful experience by the way is possible through the compliments of Urban Renewal. It is also free.

V. Tarrant.

Copenhagen.

Master Plan

An article on the "State School District Master Plan" appeared in The Times of March 28. By the use of quotes, indicating source, a Harry W. Langworthy, Jr., said, concerning the districts that are not yet gobbed in a re-socialization "Master Plan": "we prefer to have them tell us what is reasonable for each of them."

A very laudable sentiment, indeed! Why, then, when they have been told, do they not abide by the decision of the people?

Or is this statement some more of the official gobblegook, double-talk, and perfidy, that makes up that sum? You guess, taxpayer: You do!

Bond issues, on both state and local (school district) levels have not been selling; so the governor now has before him a bill taking all the ceiling off the interest such bonds pay, so they can compete with the 7½ per cent bank rate. They might pay ten per cent! Think of these things, good folk, before April 16, when you vote again on the Brownville deal the local officials are so anxious to put over!

A Possible Victim.

Three Mile Bay.

Computer Schools

The Times editorial several days ago regarding computer schools points up a serious problem which has gone unchecked for sometime.

It The Data Processing Man-again," yet as often do it! Lyme Central has (and will) undoubtedly, again, for the officials are "at it again" express its will—to be left alone!

Brownville's bonded indebtedness has doubled, with their recent bond issue of $1,900,000; their rooms are edowed, they said, injustification of their building program, which would also double, if Lyme's officials could destroy the district and hand it over to Brownville.

Taxes are out of hand and must be stopped from going higher and higher. It will take more than tea bags to do it—it will take the intelligence and vote of every concerned parent and taxpayer, not only in Lyme, but all across the state, where officials are using their dollars and scholars to further their own purposes, disbursing the one and dispersing the other. People on fixed incomes and pensions can no longer take it.

Certainly the people of Lyme Central are not less aware of these things than their neighbors on every side, who have repeatedly voted down the attempts of officials to exploit their dollars and scholars, to build needlessly expensive buildings, to move children into strange and alien environments, and to raise taxes unjustifiably, far above the confiscatory level at which they now stand, or rather, which they have reached on thier rapid flight upwards.

The example of Cape Vincent and Clayton, where the cost of a proposed new building rose in a year or less from approximately $2,500,000 to $5,000,000 is enough to give pause to anything that will impose a further drain on the resource of the district and town of Lyme; for more than $3,000 has been deducted from next year's taxes by the removal of the Ashland farms from the tax rolls. Who makes up that sum? You guess, taxpayer: You do!

Through the A. A. program (and as God as I understand Him), I have managed to sober the greater part of years and believe me, it is more rewarding than I can express. My wife can now again, my children call me my father and mother son, I hold down a and have a little more respect, even my dog tail when I come home.

I am very thankful found out, through Program, that I was an alcoholic, rested, when all thought I was a drunk."

Thanks again, for your wonder-

Alcoholism

Congratulations to the staff writer of the Times, Marion H. Evans, on her article on alcoholism. If more articles of this type were exposed to the public, I am sure it would save a lot of broken homes heartaches and some alcoholics from really hitting bottom. Being an alcoholic for two-thirds of my life and never being able to do anything about it, I can readily understand and appreciate the basic fundamentals of the Alcoholic Anonymous Program.

I believe that alcoholism is a family disease as surely as I believe T. B. or cancer is a disease.

I saw through blood-shot eyes and a blurry brain my own family give up under these conditions, never once realizing that I had an illness (not a weakness). Only after I had lost my wife and children, was disowned by my family, fired from my job, and hospitalized (state institution), jailed for drunken driving and lost all self-respect and was a disgrace to the human race did anyone get through to me. My wife, through Al-Anon, came to realize that alcoholism is an illness and can be arrested thereby gaining hope that she and the children could be lifted from the living hell that they endured for the past 20 years.

Through the A. A. program (and as God as I understand Him), I have managed to sober the greater part of years and believe me, it is more rewarding than I can express. My wife can now again, my children call me my father and mother son, I hold down a and have a little more respect, even my dog tail when I come home.

I am very thankful found out, through Program, that I was an alcoholic, rested, when all thought I was a drunk."

Thanks again,

for your wonder-

keley as finding low I. Q.'s are apt to possess more sense among non-whites six times of cooperation, steadfastness, comprehension and idealism, perhaps inferring less hereditary progress.

One must applaud the mighty and learned pen of Dr. George S. Sturtz, as it charges to the fray, intent on banishing doubters from his Lewis-Jefferson preserve for the Headstart Program. (In The Times March 17) Lack of right foods during childhood is the explanation better environment must come to the rescue.

Cannot we expect both sides, with heads unbowed to be confused, exhausted and leaning upon each other for support? Joseph Alsop reports in The Times March 14 issue that the arteries of the Masai tribe have inherited the ability to throw off cholesterol damage, whereas their Kikuyu neighbors lack that advantage. Furthermore, he cites Dr. Arthur Jensen of Ber-
